A message from The Players' President Ellen Burger

Welcome to the Community Players of Concord, NH's 98th Season of shows. As I write this, our two fall shows, Something Rotten! Jr. and The Addams Family, are in rehearsal, and our Players Studio headquarters is an extremely busy place. There are nearly 100 people participating in the casts or production teams for these two shows alone, and dozens more are engaged in the ongoing work of the organization. It really does take a village to bring these shows to you! In fact, we are always looking for more people to join us. Will you be one of them this year?

Auditions for shows are always open, and new faces perform with us for almost every show. Some of these Players' newcomers have plenty of theatre experience, while others have never been in a show before! (Or not since school days many years ago.) News of upcoming auditions is always posted on our website and is publicized on social media, in press releases, and via our monthly digital newsletter E-News Update. Subscribe now to be kept in the loop!

Interested in behind-the-scenes work? Our New Volunteers Coordinator, Cindy Dickinson, would be happy to give you a tour of the Players Studio and help match your interests with current and future opportunities.

Interested in learning new theatrical skills or advancing existing ones? We've got workshops for you! In the recent past, we've offered workshops on set design, set building, acting (including improv), and directing. Upcoming workshops include many of these same topics and more, including finding, making, and running stage properties, scene painting, stage make-up, diction for the stage, Players' history, and more. Our workshops are free, and no experience is required, but advance registration is.

Interested in gathering with others to read plays aloud, sharing in the reading of roles, followed by lively discussion and snacks? Sign up for one of our informal play reading nights. Plays are selected and advertised in advance, and registered participants receive digital copies so they can bring their own hard copies or their digital devices to the evening.

Information on all the above can be found on our website at www.communityplayersofconcord.org. I hope you will consider joining in the fun. For now, thanks for being here and for your support of The Community Players!
